St. Lawrence Centre for the Arts, 27 Front Street East, Toronto

Alex Pauk, conductor

R. Murray Schafer's Shadowman is a theatrical narrative contrasting the terror and beauty of percussion instruments; a drummer beats his way through life as the forces of light and darkness wrestle for his soul. Denis Gougeon's Clere Venus explores seven sonnets by Louise Labé (1524–1566), a frontrunner in claiming literary stature for women. Paul Steenhuisen's Pensacola transforms Michelangelo's poetry about sculpture into sound.

Well known for his environmental music-theatre works, R. Murray Schafer's cycle of eight string quartets is equally impressive. The Quatuor Molinari commissioned the seventh quartet, premiered the eighth and has recorded the cycle for the ATMA label. This performance, however, will be the first time the cycle is heard live in its entirety. Sculptures by the Quartet's namesake, Guido Molinari, are used in the set design of Quartet No.7, which also features a marching cellist and obbligato soprano. The event will include a talk by Mr. Schafer preceding the evening concert.

About New Music Concerts

Founded in 1971, New Music Concerts is English Canada's longest-running contemporary music series. Since its inception NMC has presented more than 260 concerts of the music of our time, commissioned more than 100 works and performed more than 550 Canadian and world premieres. NMC also presents significant works from the 20th century repertoire to provide a context in which to listen to new developments. It is NMC Artistic Director Robert Aitken's firm belief that the presence of the composer is essential to the understanding of contemporary music. From Luciano Berio in 1971 to Pierre Boulez and George Crumb in 2003, NMC has brought Toronto today's most important composers. www.NewMusicConcerts.com, (416) 961-9594.

ABOUT R. Murray Schafer

R. Murray Schafer is Canada's pre-eminent composer and is known throughout the world. In an era of specialization, R. Murray Schafer has shown himself to be a true renaissance man.

Born in Sarnia, Ontario in 1933, R. Murray Schafer has won national and international acclaim not only for his achievement as a composer but also as an educator, environmentalist, literary scholar, visual artist, and provocateur. After receiving a Licentiate in piano through the Royal Schools of Music (England) in 1952, he pursued further studies at the Royal Conservatory of Music and the University of Toronto, followed by periods of autodidactic study in Austria and England, which encompassed literature, philosophy, music, and journalism. A prolific composer, he has written works ranging from orchestral compositions to choral music as well as musical theatre and multi-media ritual.

His diversity of interests is reflected by the enormous range and depth of such works as Loving (1965), Lustro (1972), Music for Wilderness Lake (1979), Flute Concerto (1984), and the World Soundscape Project, as well as his 12-part Patria music theatre cycle. His most important book, The Tuning of the World (1977), documents the findings of his World Soundscape Project, which united the social, scientific, and artistic aspects of sound and introduced the concept of acoustic ecology. The concept of soundscape unifies most of his musical and dramatic work, as well as his educational and cultural theories.

He has received commissions from numerous organizations as well as several prizes. He was the first winner of the Glenn Gould Prize for Music and Communication as well as the Molson Award for distinctive service to the arts.
